POLICY – HUMAN RIGHTS

The Group Policy - Human Rights sets out Telia Company's commitments to respect and support Human Rights and outlines fundamental principles to be implemented in our operations. We expect all Telia Company employees to follow this policy and consistently apply its standards in all business dealings. We will strive to fully adopt these principles in all operations in which Telia Company has management control. We will endeavor to engage proactively with business partners, governments and other stakeholders to uphold the highest standards of human rights throughout the value chain.

The Human Rights Policy reflects the responsibility of Telia Company to respect human rights, as set down in the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights and other international standards such as the OECD Guidelines for Multinational Enterprises. As signatories to the UN Global Compact, Telia Company has committed to respect and promote human rights and to make sure it is not complicit in human rights abuses.

The Human Rights Policy is based on internationally-recognized human rights outlined in the following documents: International Bill of Human Rights (consisting of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and the main instruments through which it has been codified: the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights), the principles concerning fundamental rights in the eight ILO core conventions as set out in the Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and, where applicable, additional standards relating to the rights of specific groups and populations. When a conflict arises between domestic regulations and these international laws, Telia will always strive to meet the higher standard.

Commitment and expectations

While governments bear the ultimate duty to protect human rights, Telia Company recognizes its responsibility to respect and support human rights in all its business areas and operations. Telia Company also endeavors to find opportunities to engage and use our leverage in our business relationships to proactively support human rights in all communities where we operate.

Telia Company will strive to avoid complicity in human rights abuse and violations and will seek to provide for or cooperate in their remediation. We strive to promote and ensure channels for transparent and open communication where all internal and external stakeholders can raise concerns without fear of retaliation or reprisal and to provide fair investigation and grievance mechanisms.

Telia Company supports its employees and partners in understanding Human Rights through communication and training.

We commit to conducting human rights due diligence process in order to identify and manage human rights risks and opportunities in our business operations.
